Gold Service Movers named Agent of the Year White Plains moving company achieves top honors among 250 interstate agents for Wheaton World Wide Moving

White Plains, N.Y. — With a solid record of service and customer loyalty, Gold Service Movers is Wheaton World Wide Moving's 2008 Agent of the Year. Founded in 1928, Gold Service Movers became an interstate agent for Indianapolis-based Wheaton World Wide Moving in 2001. Since then, the company has consistently earned top Wheaton honors including various sales, hauling and quality awards.

"I can't think of a more deserving agent," said Mark Kirschner, Wheaton's CEO. "Agents like Gold Service Movers have lent their reputation and culture of customer service to help build Wheaton's on a daily basis. We know this because we get the letters and phone calls complimenting their efforts regularly. That's what we're all about: Focusing on the customer. Congratulations to Gold Service Movers."

Gold Service Movers is owned and operated by the family team of Bruce Gold, his brother Steven and his father Sandy, who is the company's chairman.

Celebrating the company's 80th year in business, Gold Service Movers provides complete relocation services to any location in the United States or to virtually any country in the world. Services include packing, crating, transportation and unpacking of household goods, commercial office furniture, art and other valuable products that require special handling.

"We're honored to be selected for this award from among such an elite group of fellow Wheaton agents," said Bruce Gold. "We look forward to our continued partnership with Wheaton and the ability to provide quality service to our interstate customers for a long time to come."
