Spike Moving Company becomes agent for Wheaton World Wide Moving

Charlotte, N.C. – Spike Moving Company is now an interstate agent for Wheaton World Wide Moving, the sixth-largest household goods carrier in the United States. Founded in 2009 by owner Ron Medlin, Spike was an independent moving company in Charlotte until it recently became affiliated with Wheaton.

“After a lot of research and consideration of other carriers, we decided that Wheaton was the perfect interstate partner for Spike,” said Medlin. “While Wheaton is large enough to handle any customer’s move – from individuals to the largest corporations – it’s flexible and entrepreneurial enough to address a variety of niches and markets across a host of industries.”

Spike joins Wheaton’s network of about 250 agents nationwide in providing the highest quality interstate moving services. Wheaton and its network represents the only moving company to have earned the Good Housekeeping Seal for its interstate moving services – and has done so every year since 1964.

“Spike will quickly prove itself to be a great agent for Wheaton,” said Dave Witzerman, Wheaton’s president. “It’s one of the most entrepreneurial agents we have in our system and I’m confident Spike will come up with its own brand of Wheaton’s quality service that focuses directly on our customers’ needs. It’s great to have Ron and Spike on board.”

Spike’s corporate offices are located at 8701 Mallard Creek Road in Charlotte and can be reached at 888-799-3546.
